

TRYING TO AVOID A SPEEDING TICKET IS A CRIMINAL OFFENCE

Drivers trying to evade responsibilities for their safety camera offences could be found guilty of Perverting the Course of Justice.

This is a very serious offence which can result in life imprisonment. Being convicted of this would give you a criminal record, which would affect employment opportunities and travel to foreign countries. Points on your licence for a speeding ticket get removed after four years, whereas a criminal record for Perverting the Course of Justice is permanent.

Report online at:

scpenquiryofficer@west-midlands.pnn.police.uk

Attempting to avoid punishment for safety camera offences could be done by:

- Falsely nominating another person;
- Falsely nominating a driver that lives abroad, we will check with your insurance company to ensure they were aware of the additional risk on your vehicle;
- Nominating people who do not exist;
- Nominating addresses identified as 'dead letter drops';
- Accepting an offer from someone who says they can dispose of your offence in exchange for money;
- Altering the appearance of the vehicle and claiming it has been cloned.

West Midlands Police has a dedicated team of investigators that looks into and reviews all correspondence in relation to motoring offences.

They have access to a large number of police and commercial databases to be able to identify false claims. Once recognised, these are robustly dealt with through the court system.

If you have any questions about a Notice of Intended Prosecution you have received please contact the Central Ticket Office on 0121 6265853

For further advice visit:

www.west-midlands.police.uk

www.wmsafetycameras.co.uk

WMP_CEU

West Midlands Police